Dear Keshav,

Re: Proprietary declaration regarding ICM+[®] software

I write to confirm that the ICM+ software was developed at the University of Cambridge by Dr Peter Smielewski and Prof Marek Czosnyka. All rights to the ICM+ software were assigned by the creators and the University to Cambridge Enterprise Limited, itself a wholly owned subsidiary of the University of Cambridge, who have the exclusive rights to offer licenses to this software. The ICM+ software is a proprietary piece of software that Cambridge Enterprise Limited licenses out on a non-exclusive basis.

The software is configurable depending on each client's needs, so our pricing is not fully standardised. However, we have traditionally licensed the software out under non-exclusive terms for research use at a rate of £6,000 plus tax. Attached is a redacted invoice for the software that Cambridge Enterprise Limited recently licensed out to a centre similar to yours.

Yours sincerely
