Dy. No.1901/JS/CAS/10 dated 30/06/2010

Subject: Promotion of faculty members of All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi under Assessment Promotion Scheme – reg.

The brief facts of the case are that the governing body of the AIIMS decided in 1994 to implement OBC reservation w.r.t. faculty posts. The Faculty Association of AIIMS protested and filed a writ petition in the High Court of Delhi [C.W.P. No. 4223/94]. The Hon'ble High Court had passed an interim order on 15-11-1994 prohibiting appointments till the next date. This order was challenged before the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court passed an interim order on 11-02-2002, to the effect that further appointments can be made on the basis of the reservation policy; however such appointments shall be tentative in nature only. In the intervening period between the interim orders of the Supreme Court and the High Court, AIIMS needed professors to run the institute lest standards should fall and proceeded to appoint professors on an ad hoc basis.

Further, during the intervening period, these ad-hoc professors who had worked for a period of one to seven years filed another writ petition in the Delhi High Court seeking regularization of their posts. However, in view of the interim order of the Supreme Court that came to pass on 11/2/2002 the procedure for normal appointments resumed and the institute body considered appointment of these ad-hoc professors on a permanent basis subject to their qualifying the selection process as per the rules. The selection committee met thrice and recommended 164 persons for appointment out of which 115 were from the category of ad-hoc professors. Out of these ad-hoc professors 62 were recommended for promotion to the post of associate professor from assistant professor. However, their appointments were delayed in view of the pending appeal before the Supreme Court regarding the regularization of services. Subsequently, the case before the Supreme Court was withdrawn and the recommended appointments were made.

In these appointments the period served as an ad-hoc professor was counted while considering promotion of certain faculty members. This was challenged by Dr. Sarman Singh by means of a PIL [CWP No. 7236/03] before the Delhi High Court which has been posted for hearing on the 19th of July, 2010. However, no record of the proceeding has been reported yet.

At this juncture it would be important to point out that the Supreme Court on 20.2.2003 deemed the question of reservation in AIIMS especially in super specialty posts to be very important and referred it to a larger bench and has ordered it to be placed before the Chief Justice of India.

Further it must be noted that the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare chaired by Dr. Karan Singh Yadav M.P. came out with a report after examining the selection process in 2003 and alleged that the act of regularizing these ad-hoc professors en masse was unconstitutional and beyond the power of the bodies involved. This has also occurred on the condition that these professors withdraw their case from court to be considered for appointment. The report also states that deserving candidates were not appointed and that the Supreme Court directions making these appointments were tentative were also not followed.

In the above background, the main question for opinion raised by the Ministry of Health & Family Welfare is as to whether AIIMS can proceed to promote 138 faculty members from the post of Associate Professor to Additional Professor in the batch of 1-7-2007 and promote another 105 Additional and Assistant professors in the batch of 1-7-2009 and 1-7-2010. The issue is primarily that these professors had been appointed initially as ad-hoc professors and desire/demand that their period of work as an ad-hoc professor to be considered for promotion.

The decisions of the Supreme Court in Ashok Gulati v. B.S.Jain, 1986(Supp) SCC 597 & UOI v. S.K.Sharma (1992) 2 SCC 728 have clearly laid down the law that the period of work on a ad-hoc basis cannot be considered for promotion even though regularization is valid. However, a very recent decision of the Supreme Court in 2010 (i.e) in Amarjeet Singh v. Devi Ratan (2010) 1 SCC 417 has held that retrospective promotion is valid when there is some legal impediment in effecting the promotions such as an intervention by the court. It is not the case that these candidates were appointed as ad-hoc professors during the ordinary course of business. They have been appointed as ad-hoc professors only due to the fact that they could not have been appointed by the normal procedure to regular posts as a result of the effect of the Delhi High Court's Interim Order on 15-11-1994. Thus, these candidates considered for promotion could have been appointed as regular employees and would have attained such seniority if it were not for the interim order of the Delhi High Court on 15-11-1994, prohibiting appointments till the next date. The said restraint order of the Delhi High court was operational until 11/2/2002.

Therefore, in the light of the reasonings mentioned above, it is advised that the promotions maybe made but however subject to the result of the writ petition [CWP No. 7236/03] filed before the Delhi High Court by Dr. Sarman Singh to prevent any further prejudice to the interests of the AIIMS and public interest.
